

TELECORE INC.

Richardson firm receives Raytheon excellence award

SUBMITTED STORY

Telecore Inc., a Richardson telecommunications firm, has received the Supplier Excellence 3-Star Award from the Raytheon Company. This is the third consecutive year that Telecore has won this distinction

“Less than one percent of our suppliers are even considered for this award, so this is a significant achievement,” said Joe Adams of Raytheon’s Network Centric Systems Group, headquartered in McKinney. “On-time delivery and product quality are criteria for this award, but we also consider the strategic relationship we have with the supplier. Time and time again, Telecore has stepped up and proposed solutions we haven’t even thought of.”

Telecore’s CEO and President, Tim Moyers, accepted the award.

“We are very proud to be the Supplier Excellence Award recipient. The employees of Telecore strive not only to deliver a quality product, but also to create a positive experience for each client. This honor reinforces our daily efforts as we look forward to many more years with Raytheon,” he said.

Photo submitted by PAMELA BAUSTIAN

Joseph Adams (from left) with Raytheon, and John Beach (right) presented the Raytheon’s award to Tim Moyers, CEO and president of Telecore.

Pamela Baustian submitted this story on behalf of Telecore Inc.